

Band Header

Item<sub>1</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

... extra text line<sub>1</sub>

... extra text line<sub>2</sub>

... extra text line<sub>3</sub>

... extra text line<sub>4</sub>

Item<sub>2</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

... extra text line<sub>5</sub>

Item<sub>3</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>4</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>5</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>6</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>7</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>8</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>9</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>10</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Item<sub>11</sub>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

----- Band Divider -----

Item<sup>25</sup>: Amarone is produced in the Veneto region of northern Italy using a unique winemaking technique. Newly harvested grapes are laid on straw mats and left to dry over the course of several months - resulting in a wine with a very distinctive 'raisiny' flavor.

Band Footer